He was doing time for murder in an Alabama jail.
She was a lonely deputy who brought his meals and mail.
They struck up a friendship, and that friendship turned to love.
that would take them all the way to Stoplight City

She sold her house, stole a car, bought groceries, gas, and guns
Then she took off his shackles and they took off on the run
They checked into a Motel Six on U.S. 41
They were planning to lay low in Stoplight City

Stoplight City, Stoplight City
They were planning to lay low in Stoplight City

They laid there in that motel bed, watched themselves on TV
She said, "I love you, Baby." He said "Same goes for me."
After years of confinement, they were finally free
And they made wild, abandoned love in Stoplight City.

Stoplight City, Stoplight City
They made wild abandoned love in Stoplight City

But after a while, they realized that life in that motel
Was not all that different from that Alabama cell.
He said "I think I'd rather spend eternity in hell
Than to stay another day in Stoplight City."

Stoplight City, Stoplight City. Stay another day in Stoplight City

So they hopped into their Cadillac and took off on the run
With a posse close behind them down Highway 41
He was at the wheel. She sat beside him with a gun.
And she said, "If we die we die in Stoplight City."

Stoplight City, Stoplight City
And if we die, we die in Stoplight City

He drove into a ditch, and she dialed 911
She hollered out "Oh shit!" and then she fired the gun
He was taken back to jail. She died before the day was done.
The road came to an end in Stoplight City

Stoplight City, Stoplight City,
The road came to an end in Stoplight City x3

Last two verses: the carwash guy, the chase, the crash, the gunshot
The road comes to an end in Stoplight City
The road comes to an end in Stoplight City
